Mawlid al-Barzanji (Arabic: مولد البرزنجي) is the popular name of one of the most important and universally accepted panegyrics of the Islamic prophet Muhammad in the Arabic vernacular. The complete title of the work is, "Iqḍ al-Jawhar fī Mawlid al-Nabī al-AẒhar (عقد الجواهر في مولد النبي الأكرم) - The Jewelled Necklace of the Resplendent Prophet's Birth". It is work of the poet and Islamic jurist of the city of Medina Ja'far b. Hasan al-Barzanji. The Mawlid genre The work is highly revered and widely re Muslims around the world. In South East Asia, East Africa and South Africa, the term “Barzanji” is synonymous[citation needed] with the word “Mawlid”, which is essentially a colourful celebration and spiritual display of deep love of the Prophet Muhammad. This is done through poetic description of his blessed conception and birth, the miraculous exploits and significant events in his life, and description of his internal and external disposition. It is closed with a sublime supplication seeking the fulfilment of needs of the ephemeral world here and the pleasures of the everlasting abode in the Hereafter. Public approval The work has a central place during the annual commemoration of the advent of Muḥammad which, according to majority consensus, was on the 12th day of the Islamic month of Rabi al-Awwal. In the Muslim households of Asia and Africa, it is also recited to solicit Divine blessings on special occasions such us the birth of a child, moving into a new house, opening of a new business, and even at the time of death - for the hallmark of a believer is to rejoice in God's blessing (i.e. the birth of Muḥammad) than to lament a loss (of a loved one). It also serves to remind the believer that no loss is greater than the loss of Muḥammad. Yet, he continues to live in the hearts and minds of the faithful. Scholarly acceptance The acceptance of the work amongst the scholarly elite is demonstrated by the numerous commentaries upon it composed by accomplished scholars including the author's descendant, Ja'far ibn Ismā'īl al-Barzanjī (d. 1317 AH / 1899 CE), the Highest Juridical Authority (Mufti) of the Shafīites in Medina. Another prominent commentator was Muḥammad 'Ulaysh (d. 1299 AH/1881 CE) , the Highest Juridical Authority (Mufti) of the Malīkītes in Egypt. A further popular commentary was by the Sudanese scholar, Muḥammad Nawawī al-Bantānī (d. 1316 AH/1898 CE) , a Shāfi'ī jurist and sūfi who settled in Mecca. The titles of some of the commentaries are as follows: al-Barzanji, al-Kawkab al-anwār 'alā 'iqḍ al-jawhar fī mawlid al-nabī al-azhar; 'Ulaysh, al-Qawl al-munjī 'alā mawlid al-Barzanjī; al-Bantānī, Madārj al-ṣū'ūd ilā iktisā' al-burūd; Popular refrain The work is the source of the popular refrain chanted in Mawlid gatherings around the globe:
